

Colma Mayor's Felony Claims Denounced

By FRANK LAPIERRE

The Director of Personnel for the San Francisco Police Department has denied statements made by Colma Mayor Raymond Ottoboni Sr., that some city policemen have felony records.

"We subscribe to requirements of the Police Officers' Standards and Training and cannot allow persons convicted of a felony to be a policeman," Police Lt. Clem DeAmicis said in response to Mayor Ottoboni's claim published in a North County bi-weekly newspaper last week.

"We just don't do it," DeAmicis, the department's public affairs spokesman, said.

Ottoboni, in an attempt to discount published reports of traffic citations issued to proposed members of Colma's prospective police reserve force, is reported to have said:

"Most of them (the six reserves) have some traffic violations, but so does just about everybody else. There are some San Francisco policemen who have felony records."

DeAmicis said he had contacted Director of Personnel George Eimil to insure that none of the city's 1,976 officers have felony records and was assured they had not.

"On occasion we are contacted by a young man that was perhaps involved in an auto theft when he was 18 years old. He wouldn't steal another car if you paid him to do it. But we still can not, and will not hire him," DeAmicis said.

And the same holds true of reserves assigned to other police departments, it was learned.

The San Francisco Police Officers' Association threatened to file suit against Mayor Ottoboni unless he retracts his statement publicly.

Gerald C. D'Arcy, president of the SFPOA, asked that the mayor make it clear the statement was made "in the heat of passion" and without intention to defame "the character or integrity of the excellent personnel in the San Francisco Police Department.

"I realize the tremendous pressure that one in public life has to endure, particularly in Colma, but to allow one's emotions to become so unstable as to utter irresponsible statements to the press is certainly not in accordance with professional ethics in statesmanship," D'Arcy said.

In a March 28 letter sent to Ottoboni, Broadmoor Police Chief Raymond Savage, S.F. Police Chief Donald M. Scott, Mayor Joseph Alioto and Supervisor Ronald Pelosi, D'Arcy noted it was "unfortunate" when some "political leaders . . . have to strike out at other communities and their police officers."

Millbrae Girl Lived 3 Weeks Under House

By GEORGE GOLDING

An 11-year-old Millbrae girl who had been missing from her home for three weeks, was found Saturday afternoon, living under a neighbor's house.

Since March 10, police said, Lorraine L. Taggart has been hiding under the George A. Lundberg home at 423 Helen Drive, eating canned goods, sleeping in a dusty bedroll and talking to no one, rather than go to school.

She came out at night only to take canned goods from the Lundberg garage, or from her father's camper, parked two doors away at her home, 415 Helen Drive, authorities reported.

(Please See Page 2, Column 4)

Police had searched the Millbrae hillsides, "staked out" areas where she was known to play, had contacted her mother in San Diego and an older sister in Utah.

They questioned schoolmates at nearby Green Hills School, and neighbors up and down Helen Drive. They probed Millbrae's storm sewers and Sgt. Ronald Caine said it appeared

Police Find Sketch in Probe Of DC Murder—Is It Suspect?

A strange twist of events has now entered the murder case of Daly City artist Wesley Strong, shot to death two weeks ago inside his home.

He is thought to have sketched a man police are now searching for in both the U.S. and Mexico in connection with his own death, it was learned Tuesday.

Police found the drawing of a man among Strong's personal effects that matches a description given by accused murderer Stanley Orville Whitebread as the person he abducted off a city street immediately prior to breaking into Strong's home at 2 Edgemar street.

Whitebread has maintained, police said, that he kidnapped a young man, tentatively identified as Stanley Moore, at knifepoint in front of the Mission Drive-in Theater and forced him to accompany the suspect to Strong's home in a move to throw off any witnesses to the crime.

Police are now doubtful that Whitebread is telling them the full story. He may be "covering" for a friend, police said.

It is known, assistant police chief Roy Beecher said, that a bloody shirt with a bullet hole in it was found in Strong's abandoned car in Ensenada, Mexico, and that three casings from a .32 caliber automatic were recovered in the victim's home and only two slugs — both from Strong's body.

Beecher surmised that if the man in the sketch is the missing Moore, then it is evident he visited Strong's home on previous occasions.

The sketch has not been identified by Whitebread as that of Moore. Copies have been sent to San Diego police, it was understood.

Detective sergeant John Kolbmann went on television yesterday in a public appeal for anyone having knowledge of the missing person to contact police immediately.

A joint Mexican-U.S. air and land search of the Valle de Trinidad, where Whitebread allegedly told police he forced Moore out of Strong's car and shot at him, was called off Monday after two days of futile searching.

The suspect informed police he shot Moore once in the left shoulder inside Strong's home when he tried to flee the scene.

Strong was shot to death in his home at 2 Edgemar Street as his ailing mother watched helplessly. Burglary was the apparent motive in the crime, some police feel.

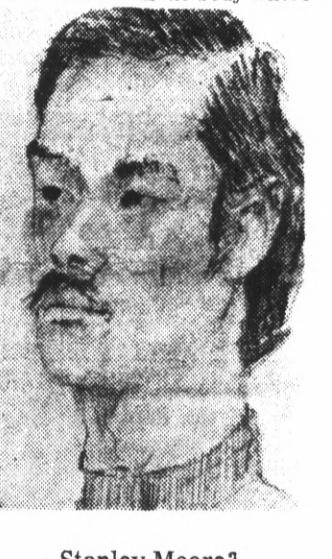

An all-points bulletin was issued for Strong's 1966 sedan and two suspects with long blonde hair.

It was later learned from Whitebread that the other suspect was himself a victim — abducted at knifepoint while he stood near the Mission Drive-in Theater.

Whitebread reportedly told the Ensenada police chief and Daly City chief of detectives John Kolbmann that he forced Moore out of the car in the middle of the desert area and shot him in the back. Inside the car police found a bloody shirt with a bullet hole in the back.

But there was no body where Stanley Moore?

Whitebread claims he forced Moore to "run for freedom."

Whitebread later abandoned the car when it became disabled and made his way to Ensenada to surrender, authorities said.

According to authorities, Whitebread said he shot Moore in the left shoulder when he tried to flee Strong's home.

The wounded man was then forced to accompany the suspect across the border into Mexico.

Ensenada Police Chief Klaus Morales delayed extradition of Whitebread pending outcome of the search for Moore — a possible second victim.

However, it was learned extradition proceedings are now under way and Whitebread is expected to be returned to Daly City within two weeks.

Meanwhile, the fate of Moore remains a mystery. The desert area Whitebread claims he left Moore in is considered the roughest terrain in Mexico.

In Daly City, an officer who participated in the search said authorities believed Moore might have survived the gunshot wound, but he had yet to turn up anywhere.

Strong Made Headlines 40 Years Ago: Claimed He Was Kidnapped

Wesley F. Strong was also the subject of Bay Area wide newspaper headlines almost 40 years ago.

All three youths, who are not identified in records of that era, were arrested and put into the county jail at Redwood City.

They confessed that Strong was to be held in a shack near Sacramento until his father came up with $100 in ransom.

A verbal hassle developed between the district attorneys of both counties regarding jurisdiction in the case inasmuch as Strong had been kidnapped as he stood on the county line.

It was finally decided to prosecute the case in San Mateo County and the trio of would-be abductors faced arraignment before Justice of the Peace Ellis Johnson in Daly City.

Charges were not followed through because it was decided the kidnap plot was foiled when Strong, then a teller for the former Anglo-California National Bank at Market and Ellis streets in San Francisco, eluded his captors on the bridge.

Records do not indicate what the disposition of the kidnap trio was, or if they ever went to prison for their thwarted crime.

New S.S.F. Fire Chief

By BOB PETERSON

South San Francisco Fire Captain James H. Meidl Monday was named to replace retiring Chief John Marchi, to whose retirement, wrong information, failure of the seller or realtor to tell all, fraudulent sales and other questionable practices of the seller of property — some innocently — will be discussed.

Whether the disclosure forms will be helpful or too costly will also be discussed by the Committee, he said.

A representative of the Pacific Building Department will be present and citizens are urged to attend the 7:30 p.m. meeting, Walker said.

Named as assistant chief was Capt. H. Derk Zylker, who will replace Alvin Brauns, presently in a San Francisco Hospital and scheduled to undergo open heart surgery.

The 3-0 vote, with one abstention and one councilman absent, on both appointments once again illustrated the deep split on the council.

Councilman Frank Mammini, who was not at the meeting because of a business commitment, was particularly upset that the appointment was not put off as he had requested.

"I called city hall and said that I couldn't make it to the meeting because of business reasons," said Mammini. "The appointment was not that urgent."

Councilman Frank Mammini, who will be here until June, I just asked the courtesy of a business commitment was particularly upset that the

"I heard that perhaps some people had dropped out of the running through pressures, and I wanted to know the reasons for these pressures," said Mammini, who added that he preferred not to say where the pressures came from.

Although just prior to the final appointments two contenders — Jack Ehle Jr. and Robert Lorenzini — withdrew from the competition, both apparently giving personal reasons.

Mammini said he also was "totally uninformed insofar as the scoring of all participants were concerned. I want to know what the scores were of all participants. I question the reason for two of them withdrawing. Am I so much an inconsequential councilman not to get the courtesy of a two-week delay on a position of this magnitude, and that doesn't need to be filled until June?" asked Mammini. "I say the decision had to be made before the election, and it stinks."

More About

New Fire Chief

kamp, who abstained from the voting, explained that the reason he did so was because the outside professionals brought in to question the candidates said none were qualified.

"Officially there was no report," said Steinkamp. "But they informed us that none of the applicants were qualified to be fire chief." Many believe Fireman Jack Drago was the most qualified. But he elected not to seek the post.

City Mgr. Gale Dreibach denied such a statement was made. "They (the outside professionals) were there only to ask technical fire questions. At no time were they charged with grading. Officially, they never made any kind of comment like that. Unofficially, I don't recall what went on. I don't want to get into a confrontation with anyone," said Dreibach.

Mayor Bill Borba put off the appointment until after the last agenda item had been completed. He then called for an executive session he said was requested by Dreibach. After 25 minutes, the four councilmen returned to the council chambers and Borba said, "We've waited for Mr. Mammini. I think we should go on with the issue."

Dreibach said Zylker would be made acting assistant chief immediately, since Brauns is in the hospital.

"Meidl will be put on March's elbow," said Dreibach. "He's only got six weeks to train." June 30 is March's last day officially, however he will be taking vacation time prior to that date.

The new chief has an impressive list of accomplishments. He has been a member of the South San Francisco department since July of 1952, and a captain since November of 1957.

In his resume he listed accomplishments on national, state, county and local levels. He has written three books on the subject of hazardous industrial materials and is presently serving as a fire department consultant to the U.S. Department of Transportation concerning revisions of the federal identification system used when industrial materials are transported interstate.

Meidl, 45, has obtained a lifetime credential from the state and may teach any course in the fire science curriculum. He will obtain an associate of arts degree from the College of San Mateo at the end of the current year.

Zylker, 48, has been with the department since 1957. He has been very active in civic work, and also has been an instructor at Stanford, Chico State and workshops and clinics throughout Northern California.

The new assistant chief also was a member of the 1948 and 1956 U.S. Olympic teams, and in 1971 he sat on an oral board for the city of Brisbane.

Heller Joins BCDC Board

Clarence D. Heller of Atherton, a San Francisco business executive with a number of affiliations including corporate directorships, has been appointed to the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission by Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti.

Heller, 45, replaces the late Louis Ets-Hokin. Heller is associated with the U.S. Leasing Corp. and Quinn River-Sonora Company.

Charged

Brisbane police booked a San Mateo man on charges of possession of marijuana, resisting arrest, disturbing the peace and violation of a restraining order at the home of his estranged wife this week.

Ronald R. Wilson, 43, of 607 Almeda de las Puglas, was arrested in the basement of his wife's Brisbane home by officers Bob Davis and David Terry about 2:45 a.m. after the suspect kicked his way into the house.

As police tried to remove him from the premises, Wilson allegedly battled with officers. Police said a small amount of marijuana was found on Wilson at the time of his arrest.

A Catered Steak Dinner for Inmates

More About

Mrs. Galindo

SAN FRANCISCO — An anonymous donor gave $3,200 worth of catered steak dinners to inmates at the San Francisco County Jails because "he felt good about the things we've been doing," Sheriff Richard Hongisto says.

About 1,200 inmates at the jails in San Bruno and the downtown Hall of Justice received the special Easter meal, consisting of sirloin steak, baked potato, salad, vegetables, rolls and cake.

Hongisto said the inmates normally are given two hot dogs or fish cakes, vegetables and a piece of bread on Sunday.

Hongisto said the donor, who wanted to remain "totally anonymous," provided the dinners because he "felt good about the things we've been doing and the way the inmates this kind of meal."

The county spends about 68 cents per inmate per day for food, but Hongisto has been trying to get that figure raised to $1.06.

Hongisto shared the Easter meal with inmates at the San Bruno facility.

San Francisco's new and experimentally inclined sheriff is proposing that jail cells be rented to respectable citizens.

Sheriff Richard Hongisto said

Monday the plan could provide funds for the inmates' welfare fund and be interesting for "concerned people who are interested in jail conditions."

If it can be done legally, Hongisto said he plans to rent cells at $10 a day, although there would be an extra charge for isolation cells.

"They'd go for about $15 a day."

"We would set it up as courses in county jailism," he continued, and "students" would eat the same food and be subject to the same rules as regular inmates.

Usually San Francisco's two jails are overcrowded but Hongisto said that "from time to time we have a few empty cells at the San Bruno jail."

INSPECTING the entry to crawl space under a house in Millbrae, Officer Michael Parker wonders how 11-year-old Lorraine Taggart managed to conceal herself for three weeks after leaving home rather than go to school. Parker and another officer caught the girl Saturday after she had been seen in neighborhood yards for the first time since her disappearance.

she had "dropped off the face of the earth."

Instead, she had taken some blankets, books and papers and had crawled through a side door leading under the Lundburg house.

She said she had not talked with anyone in three weeks and that she had planned to "stay away forever."

It took two strong policemen to run her down even after she had been spotted.

At 1:15 p.m. Saturday, the child's grandmother, Mrs. Charles Chase, phoned police.

She said the girl had been seen in a neighbor's yard. Police searched the area, but found nothing.

At 3:30 p.m., Lorraine's father, Richard Taggart, phoned again. He said he had located the girl's hiding place. Walking the neighborhood, he had spotted the side door leading under the Lundburg home and crawled in. He found Lorraine's books, but not the brown-haired girl.

Police began a house-to-house, yard-to-yard search.

As they approached 427 Helen Drive, Lorraine darted from the yard.

Officers Michael Parker and Tom Ickes chased her down and caught her.

She had neither bathed nor washed in the three weeks, they said.

She said she would run away again, if forced to go back to school. That was why she had left, she told them, because she was being made to attend school.

Officials at Green Hills had reported March 9 that the girl was "cutting" classes that day. She had been seen on a nearby hillside, but had disappeared when teachers got there.

On the morning Lorraine disappeared, her grandmother was making sure she went to class. Lorraine had been dressed in her navy blue suit, her hair combed, her two-tone saddle shoes cleaned. Mrs. Chase planned to take her to school, personally.

County Planning Director Named

Donald A. Woolfe of Visalia, planning director of Tulare County since July of 1968, was appointed planning director of San Mateo County on Tuesday. The appointment was announced by the County Board of Supervisors as the first order of business at its regular weekly meeting yesterday morning.

Woolfe, 37, succeeds Reino Liukkonen of Portola Valley, who retired as of March 1. Liukkonen's chief assistant, George Laasko, has been acting planning director in the interim.

Woolfe starts at $21,240 a year, the second step of the five-step pay range for the position. Top pay is $25,128.

The appointee won master's degrees in architecture at University of Oregon in 1949 and in urban planning at University of Washington in 1964.

After serving with the Army Military Police at Fort Gordon, Georgia, in 1959, Woolfe worked as a planner and designer-draftsman for private firms in Seattle. From 1964 to 1967 he was planning director for the City of Mercer Island, Washington. After that he owned his own planning and research consulting firm in Seattle until taking the appointment in Tulare County.

At Visalia he headed a staff of 25 full-time and eight part-time employees and an annual direct-ed budget of $400,000.

During the time he owned his own firm he prepared Model Cities programs for Seattle and Tacoma and served as principal planner for the Whatcom County-regional planning program.

Woolfe is the first San Mateo County planning director to be appointed by the supervisors.

Council Candidates Outline 'Platforms'

The Post has received statements from two Daly City candidates for City Council, Marie Taylor and Cathy Smallwood.

Other candidates, answering mailed questionnaires, submitted their answers in time for the regular summary published in last week's Post.

MRS. TAYLOR:

"We must have priority, and my platform has been and is priorities!"

"No. 1 Priority: Stronger law enforcement. More police on the beat, especially in the high crime area — old Daly City-Mission-Geneva and side streets, where people's survival and safety is threatened daily. My plan will not increase taxes. While my opponent Mr. Giambonita and Schumacher are so much concerned with the approval of half million dollar swimming pool. I think it's tragic."

"No. 2 Priority — Transportation for the whole city. Our senior citizens should be able to ride buses for a nickel on the North Gate Transit."

"No. 3 Priority — Redevelopment must be handled by skillful and expert real estate and residents in the immediate area. My unique background of 20 years in the real estate and (as) a home owner in the area will be an asset in that project and this crucial time. My knowledge of languages bring me close to Oriental and Mexican-Americans."

The whole city must be represented.

CATHY SMALLWOOD:

The key to achievement of a healthy economic and political climate in Daly City is in the degree to which the city council can involve the sections of the communities affected by council decisions. Other candidates would state the same objectives by my record in promoting community involvement is proof that I am not using empty rhetoric. I cite my work on police-community relations, Job-for-Youth Fairs, work with minority groupings, and my work with senior citizens.

I regard the problem of redevelopment as the most important current problem facing the people of Daly City. The proper approach to solving the question of redevelopment can have great effect upon most of the other problems we face.

Redevelopment: The city council should not have constituted itself as the Redevelopment Agency, nor should they have adopted an "advisory board" to stand in the shadow. The Redevelopment Agency should be composed largely of members with roots in the areas to be redeveloped. These people, residents, and business members combined, are the best insurance that a meaningful program will be advanced quickly and with the least amount of friction.

The proper use of Redevelopment funds should do more than beautify our City. It should stop the movement of our City to the predicament described over and over in the Kerner Report; economic polarization and disaster.

In addition to providing short term jobs and relative prosperity through construction, Redevelopment should provide long-time benefits in terms of providing housing and business locations for various strata of income levels. It should also provide for many of the unmet social needs of this community such as education, medical, recreation, etc. And these new jobs, provided for and brought here through Redevelopment, can be a factor in broadening the tax base.

Upgrading Mission Street: The City Council, having divested itself of the Redevelopment Agency, can then turn great at-

Joint Issue Of Positions On Priorities

South San Francisco Councilmen Frank Mammini and Warren Steinkamp have issued a joint press release on their position concerning priorities for capital improvements for the city.

In October of 1969 the entire Council appointed a broadly representative citizens committee to study the capital improvement needs of the city for a seven to ten year period.

Property Taxes: By drawing in and properly using all available state and federal funds for use within the confines of Daly City, we can do more than make the contractors and developers richer than they already are. We can, with the alleviation of the problems for which the funds are allotted, create a healthier community, increase the number of jobs and the general level of income, and hereby broaden the tax base. With the simultaneous reduction of the welfare burden as a result of this program, that will leave more money to provide more of the services that the citizens of Daly City demand and deserve.

GUS SOLA: Born in Daly City 47 years ago and was raised in Daly City. He attended Vista Grande, Woodrow Wilson and Jefferson High Schools.

His education was interrupted by enlistment in the United States Navy. He served three years with the U.S. Navy. This included 24 months in the South-West Pacific.

He is married and resides at 31 San Miguel Avenue with his wife Berta and 10-year-old daughter, Christine.

He said he is a working man who can identify with the problems of the average taxpayer and their concern with the increasing tax burden they are expected to carry, a concerned homeowner and family man with a desire to contribute to the needs of his city.

Sola said, too, that transportation is in need of improvement and a subsidization of some type to the existing system would seem the most feasible method to meet this need. He would be hesitant in recommending any increase in taxes without the express approval of the taxpayer, who would have to underwrite this undertaking, he added.

He said he believes that redevelopment of some kind is absolutely necessary to combat social and economic obsolescence, that the most important factor to be considered is the effect this program would have on the long time residents of our city.

He intends to see that the taxpayer receives honest representation in these areas which ultimately will affect their homes and future in our city. Sola said.

He said he thinks that a definitive change should be forthcoming with regards to improving the communication gap that now exists between the present city council and the taxpayers, that he realizes, he said, taxes are a necessary part of operating any city, but that he feels the people "are not realizing a true return on the tax monies they are obliged to pay."

The most important change or improvement that any candidate should institute would be to represent all the taxpayers and reestablish the fading tradition that Councilmen are actually the voice of all the people and not just a chosen few, Sola said.

If elected, his views and opinions will not be solely his, but those of the working people who have chosen him as their representative and spokesman, he said.

Sola said the endorsement of Teamster's Local 85, of which he has been a member for 22 years.

He also has the personal endorsement of Jack Goldberger and George Dillon. He is the president of the Daly City Eagles Rod and Gun Club and a member of the Daly City Mission Merchants Association.

3 Candidates Seek DC Treasurer's Post

There are three candidates for the post of Daly City city treasurer; incumbent Anthony J. Zidich, Morris Tolson and M. E. Bloom.

Zidich was appointed to the position upon the resignation of Joseph Lewkowitz. He is running for his first full four year term.

Tolson is a financial consultant for a clothing firm, according to paid statements accompanying sample ballots mailed to voters for the April 11 municipal elections.

Bloom, in a recent release, said he is a fourth generation Californian, and has a degree in business administration from Golden Gate College. He is also an Air Force veteran.

Bloom is a 19-year employee of United Airlines — 16 in San Mateo County — and has been on P-TA executive boards for ten years.

He is active in Boy Scout (Troop 343) and Cub Scout affairs and has assisted in the Jefferson Elementary School District cafeteria study program. Also on the Standards of Conduct committee and the Personnel Board of the JESD.

Bloom said his platform is based on city funds being properly invested "to receive the best and safest rate of return until used . . . ."

"I plan to attend the council meetings so as to be kept informed of all the progress of Daly City," Bloom said. "At all times I will keep in touch with the City Manager and Mayor to be sure the Treasurer's office keeps up with the trend and growth of Daly City."

Zidich is a life-long resident of the San Francisco-Daly City area. He is past president and former director of the WSIA; active in church affairs; an elected director of the San Francisco Real Estate Board representing the Daly City area, and a real estate representative.

The incumbent has pledged to continue talks with experts in the financial field to insure that city funds earn "the highest possible interest without risk" and to keep watch on all city expenditures.

North County Has Holiday Holdups

The need for Easter finery, chocolate eggs for the kiddies and Christian charity may have resulted in at least four holdups on the Peninsula Saturday night.

One South San Francisco taxi cab driver was robbed of $9 and his taxi, the Grand Leader Market in San Bruno was robbed of $700 and a liquor store and gas station in San Mateo were held up, all within a couple of hours.

Two men robbed the taxi driver in Burlingame.

Police suspect the two holdup men may be the same pair as those who robbed a San Mateo taxi driver Friday night.

The main difference is that the San Mateo "Lukor" cab has not yet been recovered, police say, while the Burlingame taxi was found within minutes.

Gaetano Accardo, 45, driver for Peninsula Yellow out of South San Francisco, called police at 9:30 p.m. Saturday, complaining of the robbery.

He said two men had telephoned from a pay booth in Millbrae, asking to be picked up at Hillcrest and El Camino eliminated the word "automat" and conceded that it would be the ethical thing to do to submit evidence of expenditures.

Connolly also called for a more harmonious rapport with county officials and the employees of the city. "A good rapport must be maintained between all departments and the council," he says, "or South San Francisco will find itself a house divided."

"I believe that I can be the catalyst for the future aggressive decision-making body that South San Francisco needs and apparently wants," says the first-time council candidate.

Mammini cites as an example that the city has a very satisfactory master plan which calls for orderly growth in all sections of the city. "The present majority on the council so often alters the plan in favor of special interests that we, in effect, have no plan at all," says Mammini. "The most recent example of this variance was a 3-2 approval for another gas station in an area already saturated with them — Westborough."

The incumbent says he will continue to support financing and expanded county services.

elements of new police and fire headquarters "with the very successful capital improvement program that made possible the construction of the new city swimming pool."

Mammini says significant problems that must be acted upon include control over environmental hazards such as noise and dust pollution, wise use of remaining open space, mass transit and upgrading boards and commissions that advise the council.

W. Steinkamp

South San Francisco Incumbent Councilman Warren Steinkamp is seeking re-election on his record of "representing the citizens, not special interests."

Steinkamp says there are three important goals to be achieved. They are "to watchdog the practical and economical development of rapid transit; the preservation of the ecological environment of the mountain and the bay; and realization of a new police facility

Health Service Plan Approved

A plan for localizing the many health services of the County Health and Welfare Department in six regional centers was approved March 26 by the Board of Supervisors.

Health and Welfare Director Dr. George Pickett said the move is the first step in a long-range plan to provide, through increased efficiencies, better services at lower cost.

Within six months, Dr. Pickett said, he will submit a plan for development of the six districts, services to be provided and a five to eight-year program for acquisition of facilities.

County Manager M. D. Tarshes said it may be possible to incorporate some other county services into the district centers. He noted that regional facilities are already available in South San Francisco and San Mateo.

Dr. Pickett explained that the Coastsides was tied in with San Mateo because it is the most accessible population center. As the Coastsides grows, he said, it might become advisable to form another service district there with a center of its own.

Under the plan, District 1 will include Daly City and Pacifica; District 2 will include South San Francisco, Brisbane and San Bruno; District 3 will include Millbrae, Burlingame and Hillsborough; District 4 will include San Mateo, Foster City, Belmont, and the Coastsides south of Pacifica; District 5 will include San Carlos, Redwood City and Woodside, and District 6 will include Menlo Park, East

Palo Alto, Atherton and Portola Valley.

Dr. Pickett explained that the Coastsides was tied in with San Mateo because it is the most accessible population center. As the Coastsides grows, he said, it might become advisable to form another service district there with a center of its own.

It is expected that the regional center in District 1 would be in Daly City. As to District 3 (Millbrae, Burlingame and Hillsborough), which makes by far the least demand for county services, Dr. Pickett said:

"This district offers a number of opportunities for experimenting with different service delivery models."

In addition to the district centers, the director said there will be small satellite centers in Pacifica, East San Mateo, the South Coastsides and Redwood City.

Dr. Pickett told the board that with the development through the years of the public health, mental health and social service divisions, a total of 12 separate districts have come into being.

"Our goal should be to maximize the probability that problems coming in the door of each facility can be handled within the resources available in that facility," the official said. "At the same time, we should see to it that we do not have to place in each of the facilities equipment or personnel who may be under-utilized because of the volume of service needs. We believe that the proposed districts will meet two criteria."

By consolidating the activities into six centers, he said, there would be less overlapping, there would be more opportunity for the various services to share facilities, space needs would be

Policy Sought on Disposal of Dead Creatures

County supervisors sniffed the to fix the responsibility for disposing of the huge mammalian carcasses and often just as difficult to do the job once the responsibility has been determined.

"Somebody should be designated as the responsible person and get with it," she declared.

The question came up during consideration of a proposed policy statement on the use of the county's Fish and Game Propagation Fund, which garners about $2,500 a year from fines for violations of the state Fish and Game Code. County Manager M. D. Tarshes said an accumulation of about $16,000 has been achieved to date.

Tarshes and Parks and Recreation Director Jack Brook recommended that the money be used for propagation of wildlife revenues coming into the fund, and not at all for disposal of dead marine animals. On the other hand, Tarshes noted that the Peninsula Humane Society, which has assumed the disposal responsibility, has requested reimbursement from the fund.

The county manager said, however, that the cost of disposal would about equal the annual leaving nothing for other purposes.

Nothing came of the discussion except to ask Tarshes and Brook to give it some more thought and to continue the matter for another look.

Officer, Wife Meet In Hospital

It was just one of them days March 24 for South San Francisco motorcycle officer Ken Metcalf.

On his way to a reported burglary at an Airport Boulevard Hotel about 10:20 a.m. Metcalf hit some loose gravel on the road, lost control and flipped over.

His left ankle was broken and tendons badly damaged when his leg got caught in the motorcycle.

As doctors at Peninsula Hospital rushed him down the hall to X-ray, he passed his wife traveling in the opposite direction towards the obstetrics clinic.

A hospital spokesman said officer Metcalf is resting comfortably today, and his wife and new daughter are doing "just fine."

Hospital spokesman said officer Metcalf is resting comfortably today, and his wife and new daughter are doing "just fine."

San Francisco County Sheriff Richard Hongisto says several small packages of narcotics have been found in the sewage treatment plant at the main county jail in San Bruno.

Hongisto said Thursday heroin, marijuana and amphetamines were found floating in small balloons or cellophane packages Saturday and apparently were part of a scheme to smuggle drugs into the jail.

They apparently were flushed down a visitors' toilet and floated to the surface of the tank in the sewage treatment area, where inmates work. He added that all prisoners working there are searched before they reenter the jail.

Robbery Foiled

Two flashily dressed young men were foiled in a robbery attempt of the Holiday Inn in South San Francisco last week by the sudden arrival of a clerk and customer, police said.

According to authorities, the men, described as being in late teens or early twenties and appearing under the influence of alcohol or drugs, attempted the armed holdup at 1:20 p.m.

Police said they were apparently frightened by the sudden arrival of a clerk and customer and fled the scene empty handed.

BRIGHT LIGHTS BY LLOYD JOHNSON

Leo Giorgetti Invites You To The Showboat

The Showboat, which is now managed by restaurant veteran Leo Giorgetti, has recently been remodeled throughout. The cocktail lounge is a snug haven for a relaxing drink, and both luncheon and dinner is served in the dining areas. Dancing to the music of the Sal Vergara Quartet (no hard rock), with no cover or minimum charge. You can't miss The Showboat — just watch for the bright lights that outline it at the shores of Burlingame Bay . . . At Torres Beach restaurant in Montara (Coast Highway One), Frank and Fannie Torres offer, among their many specialties, the Papas Rellenas. This South American dish consists of pork, veal, almonds, olives, mashed potato and egg, and is fried to a golden brown and smothered in a creole sauce . . . Kam Amdjadi, manager of the Costa Brava restaurant, well deserves his reputation for serving only the best in gourmet food. In addition to superb dining with a view to the Airport, the restaurant boasts exquisite Spanish decor and the entertainment of the Paul Verzosa Trio . . . Hot and cold hors d'oeuvres are served nightly at the new Graziano's restaurant on Pine Street (formerly Ruggiero's). Frank Perez is the new owner; Tom Duffy is manager. It's an ideal place to hold your sales meetings, office party, wedding receptions, etc.

FULL PANORAMIC VIEW — The Moonraker, with its carefully designed split-level construction, gives every comfortable seat in this beautiful Pacifica Coastsider a ringside view of the spectacular marine beauty at Rockaway Beach. The theme is nautical throughout the exciting restaurant, which is inaugurating a Sunday Fizz Brunch from 11 a.m.

Ben Jonson's Restaurant Historical Menu Event

In the Upstairs dining room of the lavish Ben Jonson restaurant banners hang from the supports of the beamed ceiling and the courses of the dinner are as in a five act play. It's an historical event when dining in this Elizabethan atmosphere . . . Enrico Romano, owner and operator of Romano's Italian restaurant at Rockaway Beach, Pacifica, suggests you try the Broiled Half Chicken, Breaded Veal Cutlet or Pepper Steak. If you tend towards seafood, he has something for you as well: the ever-popular Stuffed Turbot and Scampi . . . The Trio Orfeo continues to provide the ethnic music at The Greek Taverna in North Beach, so that patrons may dance, and so sexy belly dancers can twist and career their bodies about the dance floor in an effort to increase the pulse rate of every male in sight . . . Bill Burch, the talented guitarist who opened at the San Francisco Hilton Inn's Mark Twain Lounge in February, has extended his engagement through April. Bill, a recent graduate of the University of Nevada, came to the Hilton Inn after engagements in Las Vegas and Reno . . .

Vince's Draws Big Crowds

Vince's Italian and Seafood restaurant is offering high quality food with no strings or gimmicks attached. A long-time favorite of the particular diner, Vince's is drawing big luncheon crowds of business people from all around the Peninsula. Luncheon specials are served Monday through Friday, 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. Dinners also attract those in search of good food served in a congenial atmosphere at reasonable prices . . . Bright Lights welcomes a new Chinese restaurant to its roster of fine dining establishments. The Mongolian Barbecue, located at 173 West Twenty-fifth Avenue in San Mateo, invited one and all to try Chinese dishes barbecued over sugar pine coals on a Mongolia grill (one of few in the Bay Area) which is situated in view of the dining room so guests may watch the chef perform his culinary magic. The owners of this hospitable restaurant are Marie and Peter Lee (he's also a Captain for China Airline) and Lillian Kiang (Marie's mother), who was a cooking instructor in Taiwan, and is responsible for many of the special recipes featured here. Open every day, except Tuesday, from 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. Yes, food is packaged to go. Look for the red and gold pagoda-like sign, which was imported from Taiwan (the embroidery work was done by hand) and be royally treated . . . Exhibitors at the big International Sports Cycle Exposition, are booking nightly cocktail and dinner parties in the elegant Wellington Room of Phil Lehr's Steakery, in downtown San Francisco.

Adrian Stickney Caters To Quality

Adrian "Red" Stickney is one of those enterprising restaurateurs of our area who continually demonstrates he knows what it takes to give the public the very finest in cuisine, service and atmosphere. Adrian owns a string of Peninsula restaurants, and each caters to quality. Among his finest is Stickney's restaurant in San Mateo . . . Margie Brandon, organist at Clancy's, plays an entire song with her feet, leaving her hands free to wander through mid air. This causes some consternation among organ-bar patrons who aren't quite up to all this action — and accuse Margie of playing a computer-fed machine instead of an organ. . . . The Holiday dinners always have a glamorous touch at L'Auberge in Atherton. Master French chef George Bollag will be on hand to personally orchestrate the entire dining experience: picture salads, chafing dish entrees like Steak Diane, and flaming desserts. Fine champagne and liquors, too . . . James MacArthur, star of Hawaii 5-0, has joined the celebrity parade to the new Dutch Kitchen of the Hotel St. Francis.

BRIGHT LIGHTS BY LLOYD JOHNSON

Parking A Problem? Not At Mission Bruno's

Bruno's in the Mission makes it very easy to park. Traffic meters, continually circling the block are all avoided by that rear-entrance parking lot so popular with Bruno's customers. A big, spacious facility is at your finger-tips. Merely drive in, park, then it's just a matter of a few steps to the dining room. Hostess Kay "Wiggles" Nolan takes over from that point, escorting you and your party to a table or counter seat and presenting you with a menu just loaded with great Italian dishes . . . If you've missed seeing Gerry Reilly at his post of tending bar at the Iron Duke, it's because he's recovering from a recent heart seizure, in Marin General Hospital in San Rafael. All your friends and Iron Duke patrons during your 18 years employment here wish you a quick recovery, Gerry . . . Don Dianda has had many visitors and conventioners in San Francisco tell him that his "Doros" food was the finest they have tasted in any restaurant in the country. All food here is prepared under the direction of their master chef, Paolo Bermani.

BEST WISHES FOR PROSPERITY — This is the mutual feeling between Donald J. Snider (right), General Manager of Tanforan Park's new Garden Restaurants in San Bruno, and Jack N. Ghio, President of the Tanforan Park Food Purveyors Corp. The occasion for the smiling faces and the photograph was the debut of Steaks Unique, which is owned by Ghio and is one of eight different restaurants located within the Garden Restaurant complex.

Sonny King Harold's Club April 4

Sonny King grooves and gyrates with the lyrics and music in a return engagement at Harold's Club in the intimate Silver Dollar Room. King alternates with well-known singer - guitarist Marcia, who performs the smooth love ballads and rock sounds . . . The double entertainment bill in the Headliner Room at Harrah's Reno spotlights Carroll "Archie Bunker" O'Conner of "All In The Family" TV fame and delightful singing star Florence Henderson, of "The Brady Bunch" television show. In the Casino Cabaret through April 15 is Sam Butera and The Witnesses, plus the Leland Four, Jose Greco and Nana Lorcea and their dancers, plus Larry and Lorrie Collins opened April 6.

Mediterrane Now Open Sundays

The Mediterrane in Menlo Park will open for dinners on Sundays from 4 p.m. This downtown restaurant offers intimate candlelighting, reasonable prices, and unusual European dishes. Try Medallions of Beef or Rack of Lamb. Wines, such as Chianti, of Italy, Lancers of Portugal, Yago Sant'Gria of Spain, and Advat Carmel of Israel, are among the vintages from Mediterranean countries . . . The cuisine that made the Gold Platter in San Carlos a byword is universal, and many continental and American dishes enlarge the scope of the carte. There are savory roast fowl, broiled New Yorks, sweetbreads, as well as Lobster Tails and traditional lamb. Although a la carte list are varied and numerous, many guests, especially those dining before going to the theater, prefer to order the moderately priced regular dinners . . . Breakfast, lunch and dinner have equal appeal at Foster's Farm Fried Chicken House in San Mateo. Pancakes made from homemade batter come in many different fashions; there's a host of breakfast favorites, and the regular menu of complete dinners.

Nostalgia In Vogue At Riviera Hotel

Nostalgia is in vogue this season — especially at the Riviera Hotel in Las Vegas, where Totie Fields revives memories of the late Ted Lewis in a number entitled "Me and My Shadow." Totie uses a vivacious midget named Patty Malone in place of Lewis' talented Black youngster named Snowball White . . . A special running tribute to the late Maurice Chevalier has been added to the spectacular "All New for '72" Folies Bergere" at the Tropicana Hotel and Country Club in Las Vegas. Parisienne night-club sensation Audrey Arno, who headlines in the French revue, now sings a five-song medley of songs which Chevalier made famous in his long show business career . . . 24-year-old Ruth Ross of Los Angeles was chosen from among 21 bunnies representing the Playboy Clubs and Hotels around the world, winning the title as 1972-3 International Bunny Beauty Queen. The festive coronation took place in the Penthouse of the club-hotel at Great Gorge, McFae. Bunny Ruth hopes to teach children's theater following her career as a bunny. "I like to work with children," she says.

The Jeff Scene

By SUE McALLISTER

During the month of February seven instructors and 20 students participated in a wilderness trip to Joshua Tree Monument in San Bernardino County.

The group had many experiences such as walking 45 miles in four days, doing a solo for one day, rappelling a 150 foot cliff, finding Indian pottery, seeing big horned sheep, experiencing the temperatures change from 80 degrees to 30 degrees from day to night, and compass and map reading.

The goal of the trip was to learn how to survive in the desert with little water and that the pace of desert life is much slower than city life.

Peninsulan Feted At a Dinner Party

Mrs. Louis Rodriguez of South San Francisco hosted a dinner party for her husband at the Cannery's Ben Jonson restaurant. Eight others also were present to help celebrate the occasion.

Good morning, good cooks.

Do you have a bowl of colorfully decorated eggs in the refrigerator? Wouldn't you love a recipe that called for eight hard-cooked eggs? So would I, but I don't have it. I do have a recipe for a tuna salad that uses two eggs as a garnish. This salad has an interesting dressing using sherry as an ingredient. Though it's called California Tuna, it appeared in a paper in Kentucky — which just goes to show how good cooking ideas travel.

CALIFORNIA TUNA

Shredded lettuce
2 (7 ounce) cans flaked tuna
1 cup diced celery
2-thirds cup mayonnaise
1-third cup chili sauce
3 Tablespoons sherry
3 Tablespoons chopped ripe olives
Tomato wedges
2 hard-cooked eggs, cut in slices

Line chilled salad plates with lettuce. Combine the two cans drained tuna with the one cup diced celery and mound on lettuce. Combine the two-thirds cup mayonnaise, one-third cup chili sauce, three tablespoons each sherry and chopped ripe olives. Pour over tuna. Garnish with tomato slices and sliced eggs.

An eye-appealing and delicious bread to go with this salad, or with any meal, would be these biscuits. This recipe was a prize winner in the latest Bake-Off in Houston and made its creator $5000 richer.

CHEESY BISCUIT RINGS

1/2 cup shredded Cheddar cheese
1/4 cup butter or margarine
3 Tablespoons chopped onion or 1 Tablespoon instant minced onion
1/2 teaspoon tabasco sauce (see note below)
1 can (8 oz.) refrigerated Buttermilk or Country Style Biscuits
1 cup crushed cheese-flavored corn puffs

Preheat oven to 375 degrees. In medium saucepan, combine the half cup cheddar cheese, fourth cup butter or margarine, three tablespoons onion and half teaspoon tabasco sauce. Note: I left out the tabasco sauce when making biscuits and they were delicious. So let your own taste be your guide on this. Stir over low heat until cheese melts.

Separate biscuit dough into 10 biscuits. Pat or roll out each to a 5x2-inch rectangle. Dip in cheese mixture, then in corn puffs. Twist each biscuit 3 or 4 times. Join ends to form an "O" shape; firmly press ends to seal. Place on ungreased cookie sheet. Bake at 375 degrees for 10 to 15 minutes until golden brown.

A meat loaf with an impressive name like this just has to be good.

CHAMPION BLUE RIBBON MEAT LOAF

(First turn on oven to 500 degrees)

1 envelope onion soup mix

1 cup sour cream
2 slightly beaten eggs
1 1/2 pounds ground beef

1 cup white bread crumbs, no crusts

3 slices bacon

1 package brown mushroom gravy mix

Combine the one envelope onion soup mix and one cup sour cream. Add the two slightly beaten eggs, one and one-half pounds ground beef and one cup bread crumbs. Mix well.

Lightly grease a loaf pan. Pat meat mixture into pan. Spread the three slices bacon across top.

LOWER OVEN TO 375 DEGREES. Bake one hour.

Serve with brown gravy.

NOTE: I found the meat loaf released a lot of liquid as it baked, so poured off liquid during baking time.

Sunday afternoon will be the occasion for the Latin Club's salute to spring, according to Mrs. Nemer J. Gonzalez.

Dancing and a variety of luscious Mexican dishes will highlight the afternoon which is being staged as a benefit for the Holy Angels Parish School, Mrs. Gonzalez reports. Fun will begin at 3 p.m. in the Holy Angels parish hall, 107 San Pedro Road, Colma.

Everyone is invited to the fun and the Latin Club is hoping for an enthusiastic group to enjoy the Latin flavored entertainment and dancing to the Alma Criolla orchestra of Carmelito Valez.

Guests will be asked to donate $1.50 per person to the fund for the parish school, Mrs. Gonzalez said.

Mrs. Mario Bosso is the chairman of this year's edition of the St. Andrew's lasagna dinner, according to word from Mrs. William Holland.

Plans call for the dinner to be held in the Our Lady of Perpetual Help parish hall, 80 Wellington Avenue, on Wednesday, April 15.

Mrs. Holland reports that this yearly event has always been successful with an abundance of good food, good company and fun. As in the past the menu will include lasagna, tossed salad, wine, French bread, ice cream and cookies. No-host cocktails will be available between 7 and 8 p.m. Music will be provided for dancing.

Assisting Mrs. Bosso will be Mrs. Robert Gorrebeck co-chairman, and Sister Mary Esther, honorary chairman.

Tickets for the dinner are available for a donation of $2.75 per person. Contact Mrs. JoAnn Russell, 756-6817, for your reservations.

Children and adults will enjoy the Abraham Lincoln P-TA's spring carnival on April 15 in the school playground.

Mrs. Bobbie Tamblin is the chairman and Mrs. Kay Clark is co-chairing this benefit which will provide the P-TA with funds to purchase educational supplies for the school.

Nat Pava, whose puppet show was a great success during the carnival last year, will be on hand to entertain as will be a delightful clown.

The funfest will begin at 10 a.m. and last until 4 p.m.

Daly City's Mrs. Riva Krips was among those who attended the campaign television workshop sponsored by KBHK-TV, channel 44.

Roger Ailes, non-partisan special television consultant to the White House, was the featured speaker at last week's conclave for candidates and members of the press.

Mrs. Krips joined with others from around the bay to absorb some of the political know-how and develop the capacity to communicate well from a master in the field.

Holland Daze, the Our Lady of Mercy spring festival, will open with a special session for the youngsters in the parish school on Thursday, April 27, according to Mrs. George Sigigie, publicity chairman for the Westlake Catholic Women.

The youngsters will preview the festival in the parish hall between 1 and 5 p.m. on opening day as a result of arrangements announced by Richard Galliani, general chairman of the event.

Assisting Galliani with the planning and preparations for the festival are the floor chairmen, Mrs. John Kachur, Robert Rickett and Seb Passanisi. Ed Cuevas will do the decorations; Mrs. Richard Mudge and Pete Balestrieri are in charge of the investment tickets and the dinner, prepared by Joe's of Westlake, is being organized by Mrs. William Feely and Robert Walker.

This year the festival will run from April 27 through April 30.

Mrs. James Pretti and Mrs. Conrad Reich, reservations chairmen for the Holy Angels Women's Guild fashion show and dinner did a "land office business" in show tickets during the opening hours of reservations sale on Friday.

This year's show is being held in the Miyake Hotel in the Japanese Cultural and Trade Center in San Francisco and will feature men's and women's clothes from Sears of Tanforan.

Mrs. John Moran has announced that the show committee will include Mrs. Patrick Regan and Mrs. Robert Padreddi, co-chairman and Mrs. David Ruskla and Mrs. Michael Gilmartin the promotions chairmen. Others on the committee are Mrs. William Best and Mrs. Nancy Pizzi, investments; Mrs. John Martyn, decorations; Mrs. Patrick Callagy, models; Mrs. Billy Smith and Mrs. Urbano Maffei, donations; Mrs. Frank Scarpino and Mrs. Donald Peyrancin, programs; Mrs. James Arena and Mrs. John Bianchi, hostesses; Mrs. Sigigie and Mrs. Henry Norman, publicity.

The Mary's Help Hospital Guild will go into the publishing business later this year when they produce their own cook book of gourmet and everyday cooking, according to Mrs. Betty Schott, editor of Paging Pinatas.

Anyone with a favorite recipe is urged to send it along to Mrs. Evelyn Fitzgerald, 400 Hazelwood Avenue in San Francisco, 94132, or leave the recipe at Mary McCoy's office in the hospital.

All recipes must have exact ingredients, measurements and temperatures in order to be considered for inclusion in the book.

Marian Council

Family Forum

A Spring Fiesta is being presented by the Holy Angels Latin-American at the Parish Hall in Colma, April 9, 3-7 p.m. Mrs. Rhina Gonzales (left) and Sister Dolores of Mary's Help Hospital are getting ready for the event. Five-year-old Nemer Gonzales displays a handful of tickets. There will be exciting foods, music, dancing and handicrafts from the Latin American countries.

Girl Scout Leaders Are 'Community Leaders' Too

Running into the same people at meetings of various community interest groups, as well as at Girl Scout Assn. meetings, is a way of life for Mrs. Stanley (Barbara) Rushton.

"Girl Scout leaders seem to be the community leaders," according to Mrs. Rushton.

The quotation of "the guiding force in Girl Scouting is a spiritual one" from the National Girl Scout Leader notebooks is one in which Mrs. Rushton agrees.

She states that most church community active committees which she is appointed to include more than just a few Girl Scout leaders.

The Daly City Girl Scout special events chairman is also a troop leader, Troop 2817 a Junior Girl Scout troop meeting at Westlake Lutheran Church, and a member of the board of Our Lady of Guadalupe Health Center and vice president of the ladies' guild at Hope Lutheran Church.

"I think that helping people and being concerned with the community in which you live is a way of life," she recently stated. Girl Scouting supports this way of life.

Mrs. Rushton's mother was a Girl Scout leader and she had given many years of scouting to her children before they finished school. Barbara Rushton's daughter Michelle is 10, in the fifth grade at FDR, and her son Kevin is eight, in the second grade.

With her husband, Stanley, a machinist in San Francisco, and with her Girl Scout troop, they all share an interest in camping. An enjoyment of the outdoor life is one of the things which led her to Girl Scouting.

Champagne Shower For Prospective Bride

Mrs. George L. Woods of Millbrae hosted a champagne bridal shower for Cynthia Wright of South San Francisco at the Costa Brava Restaurant. Cynthia will wed Dan Beardsley of Burlingame on April 15th.

Barbara Bladen
Struggle by Ruth Kobart

It's fine for starlets to exclaim they'd do anything to get into show business but for veterans like Ruth Kobart, the struggle to survival often means doing anything to get out of being typecast.

After years on the musical comedy stage, the versatile performer who is currently rating plaudits for her interpretation of Nurse Ratched in "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest" at Little Fox Theater, was cast as a transvestite in a workshop play "There You Died."

"I was thrilled to be given the chance, only to find that critics such as Susan Sontag were in the audience judging me. I received a Tony nomination on Broadway in "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum" and was worrying about how I'd ever get hired as an actress."

It was through her singing career that William Ball met the mezzo-soprano when he was directing the New York City Opera production of "Six Characters in Search of an Author." He invited her to join his American Conservatory Theater Company. She stayed two seasons and was on their New York tour.

Ruth is a person you don't forget fast. Her expressive face, red hair and five-foot-ten frame make her stand out on stage and in a crowd.

"That all goes against me for television work," she laments.

But for musical shows, it evidently never held her back. She appeared on Broadway in "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying," opposite Milton Berle last season in Florida in "The Last of the Red Hot Lovers," with Burt Lancaster in "Knickerbocker Holiday," with Eleanor Parker in "Forty Carats," and a summer of "Boeing-Boeing" with Van Johnson.

"Sure I could work more if I lived in New York or Los Angeles but the price you have to pay is too high. I live in San Francisco and am lucky to find work here. Let my agents in those other two cities live there. I can always fly in, do my role and fly back out."

There is quite a bit of work coming from the Bay Area, finally, and Ruth seems to get her share.

Aside from her nighty stint in "Cuckoo's Nest," she has worked on a pilot film that Lee Mendelson's Burlingame studio is preparing. She handled nicely the off-beat assignment in the film "Dirty Harry" of a school bus driver who is kidnapped at gunpoint by a maniac killer and forced to drive across the Golden Gate Bridge to San Rafael.

"When I went to audition, they asked me if I could drive and I said sure. But they didn't tell me it would be bus full of kids. I have a trick lower back that goes out when I'm nervous and it was a panicky time when they explained I was to faint at the wheel and fall on the floor at full speed."

Her assignments in the films "Petulia" and "How to Succeed in Business" weren't nearly as physical.

"It's possible to be in a show at night and work in films during the day but not if you're working a season at ACT. They rehearse during the day and perform at night, too. Right now I'm coaching at ACT but it's not enough to fulfill the creative drive."

Great Ice Cream Race Climaxes Honor Court

The Great Ice Cream Race climaxed a recent Court of Honor for Boy Scout Troop 20, as fathers and sons worked together to produce the best tasting ice cream in the shortest possible time, on the patio of the Millbrae Community Methodist Church.

The social event was scheduled to coincide with the Sustaining Membership Drive to enroll families of the Troop as supporters in Scouting.

The Rev. Robert DeWolf led the audience in the Invocation as the evening began, after which Troop Bugler, John Griffin, blew the Call to Assembly and Senior Patrol Leader Court Plummer led the Presentation of Colors and the Pledge of Allegiance.

A line of blindfolded Tender-foot recruits were led before the members of the troop and in the Candelight representing the Spirit and Laws of Scouting, were received into the Troop in an impressive ceremony led by Scoutmaster Robert Piper. The new Tenderfoot members of Troop 20 receiving their Scouting neckerchiefs were Allan Stoddard, Charles Reno, Kevin Bartok, and James Sherrill. In turn, each boy presented his mother with the gold "fleur de lys" pin that symbolizes scouting.

Assistant Scoutmaster, Patrick Phillips conducted the advancement of Bill Paul, Jeff Breitenstein, and Dave Wolff to the rank of Second Class. Steve Pagni was given the new rank of Star.

The following boys were recognized for their work toward merit badges in various fields of accomplishment:

Steve Pagni: Camping, Metal working, Basketry; Roger Kilbore: Citizenship in Nation, Citizenship in Community; Dave Piper: Wood Working, Basketry; Court P. Ummer: Dog Care, and Greg Gibbons: Cooking.

Totin' Chip Badges were distributed to Bill Paul, Dave Richard, and Dave Wolff. A special recognition was given to the committee that decorated the window at Kinney's Shoe Store for Scouting Display Day. Members in charge of the display depicting Scouting were Mike and Steve Phillips and John Griffin.

Ron Bowen was presented a pin for five years of Scouting, Mike Thomas and Dave Piper for three years, and Steve Pagni and Steve Maschio received two year pins.

As the boys and fathers cranked away at the ice cream freezers in the Great Ice Cream Race, Dr. Hartwig Sonnenberg, SME Chairman, enrolled families as Sustaining Members of Scouting. The evening ended with the Great Ice Cream Eating Contest, with all present enjoying the results of the labors of the earlier race.

Pack 19 Meet 'Family Affair'

A musical medley of Cub Scout tunes was sung by Den 1, with the help of Den Mother Dorothy Caldwell. The audience joined in with the more familiar of the tunes.

Many Cubs were given awards that they had earned during the month.

Webelos Den 2 was the most actively engaged in completing requirements for badges, with seven boys eligible. Randy Richardson earned the Athlete award, Chuck McGowan the Athlete, the Sportsman, the Artist and the Engineer; John Mangante, the Athlete; Eddie DeMatei, the Athlete, the Showman, the Sportsman and the Scholar. Ken Sigan was awarded the Artist and Sportsman; Ricky Sohl the Athlete; Noel Chadbourne, the Athlete and Naturalist, and Mike Caldwell the Athlete, the Sportsman and the Artist. In addition, John Mangante and Eddie DeMatei were presented Perfect Attendance Awards for not missing any den or pack meetings for one year.

The other dens were represented too, as Robby Geyer of Den 1 received his Bear Badge; and Raymond Brayer, Jim Cranston and Al Tommei of Den 7 were awarded their Wolf Badges. Den 9 Cubs Robert Chetcuti, Zach Griffin, Eric Johnson, Dennis Marshall, Brian McGinnis, Mike Otter and Eddie Kenna were all presented with one-year pins; and Robert Chetcuti received his Wolf Badge.

Special thanks were given to the adult leaders who have given so unselfishly of their time, energies and talents. Den Leaders Robert Sohl, Edward DeMatei, James McGowan, Dorothy Caldwell, Dale Geyer, Cherie Oten, Toni Lordier and Laurette Brayer were given a round of applause, after which Pack committee chairman Bob McGinnis named the other pack leaders to be recognized: assistant cubmaster, Warren Moresco; treasurer, Robert Cranston; secretary, Catherine Pointon; ways and means chairman, Albert Poms; newsletter editor, JoMarie Moresco; awards chairman, Lynn Mangante; den leader coach, Mary Griffin; cubmaster, Don Griffin, and neighborhood Representative, Larry Ullo.

After the last skit of the evening — a session of riddles for the audience from Den 9 — the house lights were dimmed and Cubmaster Don Griffin gave the "Cubmaster's Benediction," and heads remained bowed as the audience sang "Taps" in the flickering candlelight of the Webelos' ceremonial board.

Pete vs. Population

Congressman Paul N. "Pete" McCloskey said Monday that it is "imperative" that a new national goal of stabilizing the American population within 20 years be set.

"Stabilizing the American population can give us a huge measure of control over the seemingly unsolvable problems of land use, racial discrimination, property tax reform, and resource use," McCloskey said in a talk prepared for delivery at a Stanford University population forum conducted by Prof.

Paul Ehrlich, author of "The Population Bomb."

McCloskey, author of the bill empowering amendment to the 1970 law which created the President's Commission on the Population Bomb, said the Commission's recommendations for prompt legalization of abortion and vasectomy wherever legal blocks still exist."

SSF Treasurer's Race Considered 'Unique'

The treasurer's race in South San Francisco is unique in ways other than the fact that position's incumbents have been challenged only one other time in the post's history.

This race pits new thinking against old methods, said by the challenger to be inappropriate for today's needs. It involves a whole new philosophy of money management.

The incumbent, John J. Bonalanza, is quiet-spoken and apparently counting on his record to put him back in office. He is a 58-year resident of South San Francisco, and his election literature says, "There is no substitute for honesty, integrity and experience."

Whereas the challenger, Hal Schuette, a 32-year-old bank executive of 31 Escanay Drive, says there is a need for "aggressive money management," including the investing of about $200,000 presently in a non-interest paying account.

He defended his investment policies by saying that the allocation of the bulk of the city's investments to a single bank is a prerogative of his office.

"I don't see why anyone should worry about where I invest the money as long as I get the best service and the best interest," said Bonalanza last June. As to whether the money might yield more interest elsewhere, Bonalanza said that anyone who didn't like the current return could get himself elected and change it.

"I welcome any professional or special expert that can show me how to receive a better return than I'm now getting," said Bonalanza. But Mayor Bill Borba said that would not be necessary.

Schuette, meanwhile, points out what he considers improper actions for a city treasurer, such as maintaining an office in a bank which gets better than 60 per cent of the city's investments.

Schuette also is critical of Bonalanza's keeping a checking account of $200,000, funds that could be earning interest for the city if invested. Schuette contends that Bonalanza is not issuing warrants as is the normal procedure, but instead "is issuing checks and calling them warrants."

"He is maintaining an active checking balance in a checking account that is not necessary," says Schuette.

Schuette says there is a need to set up an operating budget of income and expenses on a weekly basis. "This way you know how much money is needed at any given time, and excess funds can be invested."

The challenger also believes that all banks in the city ought to get a chance at using the city's money. "There soon will be nine banks in town," says Schuette. "These banks should all actively be allowed to compete for city funds. This competition will yield a higher return."

"It is important to analyze the services given by a bank to the city," says Schuette. "The treasurer must put a dollar value on this service, and he should make investments with that bank not in excess of these costs. This way he's not put in a compromising position. This is what I call aggressive money management."

Three Named In Burglary

South San Francisco police detective Miff Singleton's investigation of a February 4 burglary of Alto Loma Junior High School has resulted in the arrest of three persons and the return of $2,200 in musical instruments. Police booked Thomas Nichols, 20, of South San Francisco, Martin Napoli, 20, of Cortez Madera and a 16-year-old San Francisco female this weekend.

According to police the arrests were made when the trio attempted to pawn one of the instruments. Police said investigation revealed that other instruments were sold from San Francisco gas stations.

The original burglary resulted in an estimated $3,500 loss. Police said investigation is continuing.

years of service to the city, Steinkamp served as a planning commissioner for five years, and as chairman for three of those five years. He participated in the development and adoption of the city's general plan and planned community ordinance. Steinkamp also served the city for two years as a park and recreation commissioner prior to his planning commissioner post.

Prior to his four years on the council, Steinkamp served as a resident and he pledges to work for the residents.

Gordon Boblitt

"Currently there is a great deal of mistrust and lack of confidence in our city government," says South San Francisco council candidate Gordon T. Boblitt.

He says the city's progress is stymied, and its image tarnished by the current "old-guard" leadership.

Boblitt says his platform is based on the need for change, the need for honesty and the need for integrity at city hall.

"These are the most pressing problems in our city," says Boblitt. He says the residents are "being over-taxed and under-serviced."

"The city has maintained the same tax base (91 cents per $100 assessed valuation) for the past several years, while the assessed valuation has been steadily increasing — $30 million over the past three years," says Boblitt.

"Since the payment of taxes to the city is based on assessed valuation, the taxpayers of South San Francisco have been paying more taxes every year. And in spite of all the additional monies the city has received important community programs still are incomplete or have failed to materialize," says Boblitt.

"Rather than throwing the money away on old guard special interests, better money management can complete these programs without increasing the tax rate," says Boblitt. Candidate Boblitt, also a city planning commissioner, is 46, and a local businessman. He lives with his wife, two sons and daughter at 2204 Delvin Way.

Gives Up in Mexico

Suspect Being Held in D.C. Murder

Search for three missing jail escapees centered in Fremont Friday, and at the same time Daly City detectives were enroute to Ensenada, Mexico, to talk to a suspect in the brutal murder of Wesley Strong in Daly City.

A suspect in the gunshot slaying of retired Navy chief petty officer Strong has surrendered to Mexico police, and Daly City police detectives are on their way to question the man.

Details of the surrender were sketchy. However, it was learned detective sergeant John Kolbmann flew to San Diego shortly before midnight last night after Daly City police were informed a man identified as Stanley Orville Whitebread had turned himself in to police in Ensenada.

Chief Roland Petrocchi said police were "not even sure Whitebread is his real name."

Police were expected to conduct a search for the death weapon and car, both believed abandoned in Mexico.

Asked if the suspect had been identified or connected with the San Mateo County jail escapees, Petrocchi said details surrounding the apprehension and suspect were not clear at this week and a half ago have been identified as the trio which stole $131 from a greeting card shop at the Fremont Fashion Center in the East Bay yesterday afternoon.

Meanwhile, three of the nine prisoners who escaped from County Jail in Redwood City a 28, a clerk in the store, definitely identified William Sabler, 39; Warren Marchallette, 19, and Vincent A. Smith, 31, as three men responsible for taking money from an open safe in a rear storage room at the Hallmark Cards shop.

Detective Robert R. Bradanini of the Fremont police department said Mrs. Sharon Meier, and Marchallette came into the room and took a shoe box containing the money from the safe.

Although Mrs. Meier noticed Smith walking from the rear with the box, she thought nothing of it immediately as she was waiting on other customers.

Mrs. Meier reported Stabler apparently walked into the back checked and found the money missing.

Brandanini said that flyers had been received earlier the day, and officers took mug shots of the escaped prisoners, and the woman positively identified three of them.

The men were seen leaving the shopping center in a beige or white 1970 or '72 Ford LTD with an out-of-state license plate with a green background and white letters.

Stabler was accused of three counts of attempted murder, two of kidnapping and four of armed robbery after he was arrested after an abortive attempt to rob the emergency room at Peninsula hospital in Burlingame. Marchallette was charged with burglary, possession of stolen property, while Smith, a Daly City resident, was one of three men accused of robbing a series of pharmacies on the Peninsula.

Only one of the nine escapees — Charles Balf — had been arrested last week after he robbed a San Francisco bank.

Lawyer Faces Charges

Attorney Richard P. Lyons of Hillsborough, former city attorney of South San Francisco, was indicted by the County Grand Jury Thursday on five felony counts of embezzlement.

District Attorney Keith C. Sorenson said Lyons, 54, of 30 Loveliness Way, is accused of misuse of trust funds given into his care from probate accounts.

The indictment was returned to Superior Judge C. Brooks Ice, who allowed Lyons to remain free on his own recognizance, without bail, on condition he appear for arraignment before Superior Court Judge W. Howard Hartley at 9 a.m. on Monday.

Reached at his Hillsborough home this morning, Lyons denied the charges and vowed that he will be vindicated in court. He said he will surrender in Judge Hartley's courtroom Monday as scheduled.

"I deny the charges, all of them," Lyons said. "I will defend against them, of course, and when the case comes to trial the truth will come out."

Lyons noted that tomorrow is the 25th anniversary of the opening of his law office in South San Francisco.

"In all that time," he declared, "I've never missed paying a client as much as one cent. And I've handled several hundreds of thousands of dollars of trust funds since I've been in practice here."

Sorenson said Lyons has been under investigation by his office since November, 1971 when a South San Francisco couple complained to him that they had not received $10,000 due them from the estate of their late son. Investigation of that matter led to other estates, the district attorney said, the last complaint involving about $30,000, coming in only two weeks ago. That complaint, he added, constitutes one of the five counts.

Sorenson could not estimate how much money was involved in all but his deputy, John Oakes, who handled the investigation, said it appeared that trust funds from which obligations were to be met were short as much as $60,000 at one time.

The original complaint to his office, Sorenson said, involved a $10,000 insurance payment to the South San Francisco couple which was paid to Lyons, as trustee of the son's estate, in December of 1968. The couple complained when they had not received the money by November of 1971. Sorenson acknowledged that since then the money had been paid to the couple by the attorney.

"Of course it has," Lyons said today. "And I would estimate that since that time I have paid out $130,000 to $140,000, and no one has been short one cent."

Sorenson said Lyons misappropriated money to his own use from the trust accounts but declined to say how the money was used. The embezzlements, he added, extended over a period of three years.

The indictments were returned, Sorenson said, after three lengthy grand jury sessions in which 30 witnesses were called and more than 100 exhibits were introduced.

Mayors Unanimously Against Infringement

In an unusually unequivocal stand, the mayors of San Mateo County let it be known last week that they are unanimously opposed to any additional infringement by the state over local governmental control.

Meeting at the Menlo Country Club on Woodside Road west of Redwood City, the San Mateo County Council of Mayors voted unanimously to oppose two bills now before the state legislature that would set up a series of regional agencies to control Coast-side development.

The mayors' action was unusual in that they acted on the proposal the first time it was brought up before them. The usual policy is to bring up a matter before the mayors at one meeting to have it enacted at the following meeting.

The two bills opposed by the Mayor's Council were ones presented by State Senator Ralph Grunski of Monterey County and Assemblyman Alan Seroti of Los Angeles County, both of which would set up regional coastal agencies.

The Half Moon Bay City Council has already gone on record officially as opposing the legislation, while Pacifica city fathers have voiced their concern.

Mayor Wayne McFadden of Foster City, chairman of the mayors' legislative committee, noted that both bills would take away environmental control and development of the coast from local agencies and thus "usurp" local control.

McFadden insisted that any legislation to meet local approval must contain the following provisions.

1. That the state set up uniform guidelines for all local agencies.

2. That the guidelines be uniformly endorsed.

3. That any control be financed by the state.

4. That local agencies maintain local police, building, and permit control.

A proposal of Councilman Francis P. Pacelli of Daly City that the county board of supervisors cease to allocate additional funds to the Environmental Quality Coordinating Council of San Mateo County drew vigorous opposition from Councilman Joseph E. Judge of San Carlos.

Pacelli, maintaining that the functions performed by the council are already under the jurisdiction of the county's Regional Planning Committee, charged that it wasn't until after the county allocated funds towards the environmental council that North County cities heard anything of it. Then, he were asked to allocate $100 each towards the Environmental Quality Coordinating Council.

"We are still part of San Mateo County," he stated. He said that studies made by the council of Interstate Freeway 280 and San Bruno Mountain had already been made by the Regional Planning Committee, on which each city is represented.

"Frankly," Pacelli asserted, "I think this council is oriented one way," explaining that most of the members of the council live south of San Mateo.

Judge retorted that there has been no countywide group charged with looking at the over-all environment since the RPC environmental quality subcommittee folded in 1970.

He said the EQCC represents an attempt to bring together citizen groups and government bodies in the county in a way that enlists the participation of diverse groups and give a new thrust to our environmental efforts."

Judge reported that the environmental council is now holding at least three public hearings in different parts of the county to prepare a report to the board of supervisors on the state of the "environment" of the county.

Among the other activities being held by the council, Judge said, are a panel discussion on solid waste disposal in San Carlos on April 27, studying the issues surrounding the controversy over Highway 380 from San Bruno to Pacifica, and conducting long range planning.

Judge implied the Regional Planning Committee had made a deal with the Crocker Land Company for a change of plans for a regional park on San Bruno Mountain.

The controversy was put over until the mayor's next

Certificates were presented to Burns Pompatti of Half Moon Bay; Mayor Robert Bury and Councilman Herbert G. Petersen of Redwood City; Mayor Maurice K. Hamilton of San Bruno, who has been appointed San Mateo city attorney; Mayor James S. O'Connor of Millbrae; Councilman Daniel J. Modena of Pacifica, former Mayor Dr. Nevin K. Hiester of Portola Valley, and Councilman Charles C. Bunker, John Bobek and Stanley P. Makay of Woodside.

Frank LaPierre
But First, a Political Story

BEFORE THE EARTHSHAKING matter of who will win in the upcoming municipal elections is discussed, here's a political story, overheard recently, about a powerful politician in a small western town that oddly enough, also was a property owner of some repute. To say he controlled his town with an iron fist would be an understatement — he was considered by many to be an absolute ruler. He received his weight in ballots every four years. He sometimes loaned his "system" to friends on the city council.

SO POWERFUL WAS THIS politician, the story goes, he had his tenants convinced they should continue him in office. For without him to control the city's non-existent budget and revenues, their rents might have to be increased. And to insure that they complied with his desires, he had many of the honest hardworking residents of the town actually believing he could READ the voting machines and tell who voted for whom in the races. Of course, NO ONE knows who voted for which candidate inside that booth. But many voters didn't know that.

THE TOWNSPEOPLE were frightened into calling this politician's bluff, and he continued in office for many years, appointing whomever he so desired to various plums around City Hall. But why am I telling this story here and now? Certainly it is election time, but heaven knows such politicians can't be found in this state!

THIS YEAR WE WOULD HOPE the people don't let apathy rule out the person whom they believe can do them the most good in public office. It takes all of two minutes to vote. And it takes four years of living with whomever is voted into office. End of sermon.

HERE'S THE WAY the vote will go. If I'm right, remember me and where you read it. If I'm wrong (and I was wrong once about 30 years ago I modestly confess) forget it!

ABOUT THE ONLY race I'm absolutely certain of in Daly City is the re-election of pretty City Clerk Anna Ohlendorf. She's running unopposed.

Voters will put Anthony Zidich in office for his first full term, by an overwhelming margin. And over in the Jefferson Elementary School District we think Ruth Galindo will top James Cranna for a seat on the Board of Trustees vacated by Bill Schumacher, who is running for the city council — a feat he tried two years ago and came in fourth.

AND NOW THE D.C. COUNCIL (hand me the envelope please) — Frankly speaking, as the campaign enters its final six days you could cover the top three candidates with a postage stamp. These last days will tell. There has been a final burst of all fronts.

If you can believe window signs (and we do) the three in the lead are Paul Hupf, Anthony Giannoni and William Schumacher. And not necessarily in that order. This sounds like a copout, but that isn't our intention. There are certain scientific readings we often employ when a race is this close. We call this scientific equipment "a coin."

TAKING THE COIN in one hand we flip it into the air and watch it fall to the floor. And now we have the answer we seek!

In top spot will be Paul Hupf. Second by a hair, the coin tells us, is Tony Giannoni with William Schumacher. There you have it. If it's wrong, blame the coin.

THE ONLY OTHER CITY we will discuss here is Good Old South City — with three seats open. There has been the usual amount of politicking, mudslinging, behind the curtain activities. But we think incumbents Frank Bertucelli and Frank Mammini will top the slate with third place being haggled over by Terry Mirri, Warren Stenkamp (incumbent) and Gordon Boblett. We think "Whitey" Stenkamp might miss and Boblett will grab the spot.

SOUTH CITY FIREMEN have been sporting quite a number of Mirri-Bertucelli signs in windows. Not ALL firemen, but a goodly number, we make clear. So, this pair has the support of a large segment of the city employees. And past performance by Bertucelli has proven he has support of local working people.

NO, BUT SERIOUSLY FOLK — Let's talk about some other eggs — the Easter type. One of the nation's most celebrated holy days, it seems it is another holiday becoming famous for cards, presents and booze. Proudly we declare there were no presents at this writer's home, no cards sent out, and very little booze consumed. There are still some folks around (include me) who are hanging on to a few of the Old Ways. It is also worthy of note that Yours Truly has never been accused of being loose with a buck.

NOTES ON A SHABBY CUFF — Tender Loving Care (TLC) hamburgers are now on the market at the site of the Westlake Bowl. The TLC firm renovated the old coffee shop at the bowling building and came up with a mighty fancy (and tasty) eatery. And the former Meatblock, up at Skyline Plaza, is now known as The Skyliner. The atmosphere is comfortable, the food is good and the price is so low it seems almost like stealing. Try it, you'll like it.

SPECIAL TO E.W. — Sheriff, never mind the haircut. That's kinda silly. Why not something more reasonable — like your salary until all eight convicts are caught. That should shake the tree and even those who doubt your sincerity would cheer. Meanwhile, I think I'll let my toenails grow until a few of the security leaks are plugged at our own County Jail. Rumor has it that the San Francisco Board of Supervisors may ask Sheriff Richard Hongisto to declare the Redwood City facility a nuisance and order him to take it over.

SPECIAL TO ME from withdrawn JESD candidate Jim Edwards: "Contrary to stories circulating through the community I am not supporting candidate Jim Cranna, or Mrs. Ruth Galindo, in their bids for the School Board. The community has to decide which person they want on the Board." And that's the END of that rumor.

The Post gives its columnists a great deal of latitude, offering its readers the benefit of knowledgeable, varying opinion. Their opinions are not necessarily those of The Post which addresses itself to its readers only through clearly marked editorials.

Letters to The Editor

Women's Lib

Editor, The Post:

Normally, I do not dignify letters such as Mrs. Knight's response to my position on women's lib (Letters, 17 March '72) with a reply. However, in this case, it indicates that a clarification of my position is required to set the record straight.

Let me first start with a definition. We are all aware of the different types of pigs that plague our society (Example: The litter pig whose decorative talents adorn our parks, forests, freeways, etc.). Let me now define the feminist pig to be a woman who wants full rights as a man but wants no part of the full responsibility that comes with it.

Our Declaration of Independence states "... that all men are created equal ..." This means that all men are created equal before the law. We have seen what sort of chaos results when a group of people (Blacks, for example) get put on the receiving end of all the responsibility and enjoy few, if any, rights. However, in the case of women, we have a tradeoff involved. For example, while women don't get equal pay as men, they are not required to lift as much or perform dangerous tasks in many areas. They are not subject to the draft, nor are they required to perform combat duty. In a divorce action, the wife gets the home, the kids, and the car. The husband, also known as the poor schmuck, gets the bills. The things they can get away with as women borders on atrocity. For example, for purposes of child support payments, the husband is considered the father of all children resulting within the marriage even if the wife is a proven adulteress and blood tests indicate that the husband could not have been the father.

What we should try to achieve in this country is a classless society. I do not mean classless in the economic sense as under communism. I mean one class before the law. The law should apply to everyone, rich or poor, with or without political position or connection, racially, or sexually. Why compound our problems with a no other "privileged" class when we have enough problems as it is now? How do they rate special treatment? Should we not try to eliminate inequities before the law rather than add to them?

After having considered the above facts and arguments and those of my previous letter, it would seem that any true believer of feminine rights would be in full accord with me on this issue. In the light of this new information, only the feminist pig would have any objection.

As I am writing this, I hear the good news that Congress has not only passed a non-discrimination amendment but that they have also overwhelmingly rejected amendments to the amendment that would exempt women from the draft, combat duty, and would have kept on the books "protection" laws for women. Now I only hope that there are 38 state legislatures willing to move and pass this in record time.

ANDY BREGLIA,
San Bruno

Doesn't Endorse

Editor, The Post:

This is to inform you and your readers that the O.E.P., a program at Skyline College to assist disadvantaged students, does not endorse and has never endorsed Cathy Smallwood, a candidate for the Daly City Council.

As director of the O.E.P., I would certainly have been approached regarding an endorsement. This has not been the case.

In my opinion, bipartisan politics and education ought to be maintained as far apart as possible. The same applies to college departments, of which the O.E.P. is one, endorsing political candidates. College students may work for candidates on their own time but not in the name of the O.E.P. Therefore, while I wish all candidates, including Cathy Smallwood, a most successful campaign, the O.E.P. endorses no one.

MANUEL C. CARRILLO,
Director, Open
Education Program,
Skyline College.

We Recommend:

Giammona, Hupf in Daly City

As usual, a wide field of candidates attests the continued lively interest in the local government of Daly City.

From that field, however, there is little difficulty in making a choice because the one incumbent asking to be returned to office is veteran Councilman Anthony Giannoni, who has compiled an excellent record since being appointed to the city's governing board in 1966.

Similarly, a wise choice is easy to make from the rest of the field. Paul M. Hupf has served the city with distinction since he was elected to the council in 1956, and became the city attorney in 1957, leaving that post in 1966 to accept a governor's appointment as a north county municipal judge.

Probably, no other candidate has the intimate knowledge of Daly City and its local government possessed by Hupf. His principal issue for next week's election is his concern to proteet the city in expected land use changes that will grow out of the BART station and corridor in the city.

The voters, therefore, will be able to elect two councilmen with real experience, familiarity with Daly City's needs and problems, demonstrated ability, and sound and conservative fiscal policies.

Also at the coming election the Daly City voters can retain in office City Treasurer Anthony Zidich who was named to that post last year to fill out the term of Joseph Lewkowitz, who resigned after 16 years as custodian of the city's funds. Long active in civic affairs, Zidich has also served on the Recreation Commission and as a member of the General Plan Citizens Committee.

The Post earnestly recommends the election of Anthony Giannoni and Paul M. Hupf to the city council, and of Anthony Zidich to the office of city treasurer.

Incumbents and Boblett in S.S.F.

Next Tuesday's municipal government ballot in South San Francisco offers a long slate of candidates for the city council and a contest for the office of city treasurer.

For the council, the Post recommends to its South San Francisco readers the election of three candidates. They are: Incumbents Frank Mammini and Warren Stenkamp, candidate Gordon T. Boblett.

For the office of city treasurer, the recommendation goes to candidate Harold Schuette.

Mammini, a four-year member of the council, brought to the city a bold and progressive new business leadership, and an acute interest in its major problems of noise pollution, neighborhood improvement and planning for city beautification and land space use. He continues to regard these issues as paramount.

Steinkamp, also a businessman and a four-year council member, has pinpointed virtually the same issues. He also promises close attention to the economical development of rapid transit, preservation of the values of San Bruno Mountain and the Bay, and the realization of new police facilities and extension of county services in the city.

Boblett, a candidate who was narrowly defeated at a previous election, has been a planning commissioner and in the forefront of local and county planning activities. He, too, is a business candidate with a special interest in careful use of the taxpayers' money and responsiveness to the wishes of the citizenry.

The candidate for treasurer, Harold Schuette, has 12 years of banking background and has exhibited leadership in civic matters. His primary promise is to see that city funds are promptly and equitably deposited to bring the city maximum returns on its banking transactions.

The recommendations on behalf of these candidates are offered on a basis of careful study of both qualifications and achievement. Vote for Mammini, Steinkamp and Boblett for city council, and for Harold Schuette for city treasurer.

Elect Covey, Wyckoff, Hultberg

Voters in San Bruno will choose two councilmen and a city clerk at next Tuesday's city elections. Reflecting the intense interest in local politics for which San Bruno has become noteworthy, the council ballot is a long one and lists a total of ten candidates for the two available council positions.

This, in itself, marks the necessity for voters to make careful selection.

The Post has made a careful study of the list and has concluded that the best candidates are:

Incumbent Councilman George R. Corey, leader at the polls in the last regular election who has vindicated judgment of the voters by a strong and effective performance in city government. Corey is an attorney whose talents and professional knowledge have been valuable in the conduct of city business and the formulation and implementation of city policy. He brought a needed vigor to the council; and,

Orville Wyckoff, an educator who served as chairman of the San Bruno

Capital Improvements Committee and has a strong bent for economy in local government together with a conscientious respect for the opinions of all of the citizens.

He advocates integrated rapid transit, the preservation of residential areas, and the protection of senior citizens and other taxpayers by cautious consideration of civic policies that may affect their tax bills.

The only other San Bruno contest is for the office of city clerk, which incumbent Carl Hultberg has the advantage of experience and a record of courteous service to the public. He has earned and deserves election.

San Brunoans should have well in mind the need for wise choices at the election. They have learned the hard way that recall elections are a divisive and expensive method of reconsideration.

The Post recommends to them the election of George R. Corey and Orville Wyckoff to the city council, and the election of Carl Hultberg as city clerk.

Glang, Spera in Millbrae

Two seats are open on the Millbrae City Council at the forthcoming municipal elections on April 11. Only one incumbent is seeking re-election since Mayor James O'Connor is retiring from council after serving two terms.

The lone incumbent is former Mayor William G. Glang who is asking re-election after very successful performance as a member of the council. He is a businessman candidate who put to good use his long experience in civic and public affairs which includes ten years of service with the Millbrae Elementary School of which he was twice president, and more than 15 years with the Millbrae Chamber of Commerce in which he also served as a president. His career has also encompassed leadership with the Red Cross, the United Bay Area Crusade, and the California School Boards Association.

His military record was outstanding, having advanced from the rank of Private to Major in the Army Ordnance with service in the China, Burma, India Theater of World War II.

Among the other candidates the name of Barney Spera stands out. Once previously a candidate for the council, he is known as an independent thinker and advocate of environmental conservation. He is a leader of a labor union representing airline workers and in a unique position to bring to the council knowledge of the operations of the San Francisco International Airport which is a major economic and industrial component of Millbrae.

The Post recommends to Millbrae voters the re-election of incumbent William G. Glang and of Candidate Barney Spera.

Also recommended for re-election is the incumbent City Treasurer, Ed. Rogers.

'Bell's Syndrome' Strange Disease

It doesn't matter how smart you are or how careful, you are the victim of at least one of the many man-made maladies that plague 20th Century Americans.

Perhaps you suffer from "acute incommunicates," otherwise known as "Bell's Syndrome."

This strange disease which causes heartache and nervous disorders, finds older men and women most susceptible to its attacks. Nevertheless, young people — especially those in the throes of love affairs — are frequently its victims.

An attack occurs each time a victim hears a telephone ring. Jumping to answer it, the victim shouts, "That must be Jon (or Mary, Gina, Irving, Adelaide, Farthington II, etc.)!" When the call proves to be a wrong number the victim is seized by heart pains and often, tears and shaking.

Sometimes an attack of "Bell's Syndrome" on senior citizens is induced by a caller who says, "Man, will you tend the kids tonight?" or upon such a request as "Dad, bring over your power-tools; I want to borrow them." An attack always follows a request to look after the dog, or the cat, or the fish, or the birds "while we are on vacation." Mature conduct is the only cure for "Bell's Syndrome" that is recognized by the experts. However, old-fashioned empathy is often prescribed.

ONE OF THE MOST COMMON man-made maladies is known as "bellicosis idiota" which translates to "the war of idiots." Its common name, however, is "generation gap." As a disease it is most horrible because it is diagnosed as completely senseless and unnecessary — yet it attacks nearly every home in the land. To cure the disease, the experts on man-made sickness prescribe the oil of common sense buffered with tolerance.

The prescription created by Simeon Costa and published in Harvest Years for March 1972 calls for five grains of the common sense remedy to be taken before each confrontation.

Costa writes that special exercise that can cure "generation gap" is for old fools and young ideots to "face members of the dissident age group for two consecutive minutes with mouths firmly closed ... ears, eyes, and mind open ..."

"Keeping the mouth shut for so long a period may prove difficult," he writes, "but with practice it becomes second nature to shut up and listen."

Costa finds the disease of "hemorrhoidal hemorrhoida" among the most painful. This illness is singularly dangerous because it reduces the victim's ability to recuperate. Its common name is "bleeding taxes" and its most serious complications are caused by property taxes.

Packard Recalls 'Power' Days

do today have assured deterrence," but makes it plain that he believes this was only accomplished over formidable opposition.

Consider, for a moment, Packard's perspective. Long engaged in a business dependent upon technological change and research and development, he went to Washington and was one of the men who brought American defense and foreign policy into line with reality. Under his leadership substantial reductions in military procurement were made and research and development expenditures were leveled off.

Military personnel numbered 3.5 million in 1968 and the fiscal year budget for 1973 provides for 2.4 million. Civilian personnel is down from 1.3 million in 1968 to a proposed 1.0 million.

So when Packard speaks of the necessity of continued renewal and refurbishment of our nuclear arsenal he compels close attention. He claims that we have assured deterrence only because we went ahead with the MIRV program over the opposition of Senators Humphrey, McGovern, Muskie and Kennedy. He also says we must maintain all present programs, including the B1, the ULMs and Safeguard ABM in order to provide "realistic and reliable assurance against the possibility of global nuclear war. . . ."

Winning's Easy;
Keeping's Hard

There's not too much one can say about UCLA that hasn't been said too many times. But we'll try.

With all the talk about how the preponderance of Bruin sophomores will insure continuation of the dynasty, we didn't hear one comment about the poise of such a young team under the extreme pressure of not only going for a national championship, but defending one. Any coach will tell you it's much easier to win a championship than to keep it.

A brash young team like the Bruins, had it been their first crack at the title, would have had nothing to lose, everything to gain. Imagine, everyone would have said, a team with four sophomores in the starting lineup winning a national championship. Astounding! Yet, everyone EXPECTED this club to win it all, sophomores or not. By winning, they were only doing what they were expected to do. Had they lost, they wouldn't have been the valiant kids who just missed grabbing the big apple, but had nothing to be ashamed of, etc. etc.

They would have been the bums who cut off a string of five straight national titles. They would have been disappointments, representing a pause, at least, in a dynasty. They would have been dissected, analyzed, criticized and eventually, perhaps, been characterized as choke artists. The hint came when the television broadcasters made a big deal out of the fact that the five point margin in the final over Florida State represented the closest point difference in the eight UCLA championship final games. It was even part of the lead paragraph in many of the newspaper stories around the country.

If there had been any doubt earlier, the tip-off (pun intended) to UCLA's eventual sixth straight came in their semi-final game against Louisville, whom they beat by 19 points even though Henry Bibby made only two points. What other college basketball team can you name in recent history who could beat one of the best teams in the country by 19 points while its All American guard was being held to two points?

What's happened to all the critics of Franklin Mieuli's trades since his two which turned the Warriors around on a virtual 180 degree axis to the positive. They were, in fact, two of the best trades in pro basketball this past season. We speak, of course, of the acquisition of Jim Barnett from Portland for a couple of draft choices at the tag end of last season, and Cazzie Russell from the Knicks for Jerry Lucas this season.

Barnett, as we've mentioned more than once in this space, provided the real turning point for the Warriors when Attles replaced him for Fritz Williams after that disastrous December. From that point on, the Warriors started their big winning skeins. Russell, of course, ended up as the Warriors' second leading scorer (tied in average with Nate Thurmond) despite a painful back and leg problems which cut greatly into his playing time in the latter stages of the season. Together, Barnett and Russell gave the Warriors more speed and dash and verve and versatility than they've had since that spoiled kid from New York, Washington and Oakland was on the team and the Warriors looked like they were on their way to a dynasty.

The Russell-Lucas trade was one of those few trades which is good for both teams. Lucas, in fact, was probably of more value than even the Knicks had anticipated because of the early season fade of Willis Reed, whose knees never did make it back. If Lucas hadn't been able to take over the unfamiliar pivot spot and perform adequately, the Knicks might not have made the play-offs.

Meanwhile, how ironic it was that Lucas the malcontent, who was discouraged playing for a loser, should end up with a team which not only wasn't as successful as the "loser" he left, but which in fact had its worst season since 1967-68.

The Sporting News All NBA team contained a curious twist this year. Generally, the second string All Pro team is made up of the up-and-coming players; the first team, of course, the long-established stars.

This year however, the second team averaged 31.5 years of age as against the first team's 27.5, the first club averaging about 6 years experience in the pros, the second squad 9%.

For your edification, the first team was made up of Spencer Haywood (22, 3 years experience), John Havlicek (31-10), Kareem Jabbar (24-3), Jerry West (33-12) and Walt Frazier (27-5).

On the second string were: Bob Love (29-6), Dave DeBusschere (31-10), Wilt Chamberlain (35-13), Oscar Robertson (33-12) and Archie Clark (29-6).

Terra Nova Super Star (pick your sport) John Racanelli is not only the school's first genuine potential big bonus baby (baseball), but probably the North Peninsula League's FGPBBB.

Racanelli has drawn the Biggies' full complement of scouts on more than one occasion when he has been scheduled to pitch (his hitting is considered simply frosting on the cake), and his coach, Marty Coil (an ex-Terra Novan who himself had a few scouts after him several years ago before he finally chose the Giants), reports long distance phone calls at odd hours from inquiring clubs all around the country — from scouts with hot pens who evidently haven't heard about time differences between coasts, can't adjust their mathematics to anything but figures on the bottom on contracts, or who just don't give a damn about Coil's beauty sleep.

Coil got one-such the other evening, and reports the following conversation:

SS (Super Scout): Listen, we know about Racanelli's baseball ability. What we want to know is what kind of an athlete is he?

TC (Tired Coil): Well, I'll tell you. His worst sport is basketball. He led the league in scoring and was second team All County.

SS: (Pregnant pause, gasp)

TC: (Hung up).

May this be the last time we say anything nasty about Canfield Park, since it looks like we're stuck with it and might as well make the best of it, and all that. But this we can't resist.

We now have a stadium more than a decade old in, all things considered, the worst location in town, which was supposed to cost $5 million dollars, ended up costing $15 million, and with various face liftings included, is now into somebody's pockets (certainly not George Christopher's or the estate of Charles Harney) for a minimum total of $40 million. And it's still an old stadium in the worst location in San Francisco.

Port Horace Stoneham.

San Francisco State College's C-Far Western Conference basketball champs recently named team award winners as follows: Garry Bradford, Most Valuable Player; Larry Taylor, team captain; Wallace Johnson, Most Improved Player.

Bradford was a college division All-American forward. Taylor, Bradford's running mate in the front court, was the squad's leading rebounder and third best scorer. Johnson, a center-forward, came on with a rush in late season to develop into a key man coving off the bench.

Ump's Strange Call Costly to Warriors

When is a tournament championship not a tournament championship?

When is an apparent victory not a victory?

When is a home run not a home run?

These particular questions can all unfortunately be answered by South San Francisco High School baseball coach Bob Brian who watched his charges apparently win then lose the championship game in the SSF Easter Tournament at Orange Park Saturday afternoon, 8-5, in 12 long innings to St. Ignatius' Wildcats.

El Camino took third place with an 8-3 win over Richmond. The Warriors succumbed to one of the most highly questionable rulings, if not entirely illegal and without rule basis, ever rendered by officials and since there is no protest setup for the five-day tournament the umpires' ruling was final.

The controversial situation arose in the bottom of the sixth inning with SSF trailing 5-4. Relief pitcher Terry Hendley smashed a tremendous blast over the leftfield cones with a runner on for a highly emotional 6-5 lead for the Warriors, who earlier had trailed by as much as 5-0.

As Hendley rounded third he was greeted by every team member (remember Bobby Thompson?) who gave him the expected hero's escort to home. SI coach Jim Keating protested that a SSF player had crossed into fair territory during the festivities and interfered with the game. The umpires some how agreed, nullified the home run, gave the Warriors only one run instead of two and tied the game at 5-5.

The question arises as to what sort of interference there was? How could one or even one dozen players cowering along the foul line interfere with a dead ball situation — in high school ball a player hitting a home run technically does not even have to run to the bases, home runs and ground rule doubles are being awarded to the runner automatically.

"No play could possibly be made on the runner," Brian correctly noted. "The ball is dead. There's no way you can legally take a run away in that situation. Even if that runner misses every base rounding the bags there is no appeal on an awarded base play. It was just a ridiculous and costly decision about which we could do nothing."

The score stayed the same until SI broke through for three runs in the top of the 13th against lefty Dennis Yamamoto, Whiff Collins, the last of four

Tactical Alert Disperses Mob Of Juveniles

A massive show of force by tactical squad units from seven Peninsula police agencies dispersed a group of shouting, taunting juveniles in Foster City last week.

Foster City Police Chief John Norton said that the attempt to provoke a violent confrontation with Foster City Police was thwarted by the units from Foster City, San Mateo, Hillsborough, Belmont, Millbrae, Burlingame and the Sheriff's office, called into action at 8:10 p.m.

The operation was alerted at 4:10 p.m. for standby duty said Chief Norton when reports reached the Foster City Department that a group of juveniles sought to attract a large group of young people to Eickenbrack Park for the purpose of causing a disturbance to which the police would respond and subsequently be pelted with rocks and broken glass.

The initial pass by the park at 8:15 p.m. showed some 50 juveniles who cursed passing police. In an effort to avoid physical confrontation with resulting injuries to juveniles, Norton called in the assisting units from other cities to show the juveniles that such behavior would not be tolerated now or in the future.

One juvenile arrested, called the ring leader, was booked into Hillcrest on charges of disturbing the peace, resisting arrest, unlawful assembly, and refusal to disperse. When he was arrested the group split into small groups and fled the area. Assisting departments patrolled the streets for a short time to insure that the large group was not reformed, and later were released to their own departments.

The attempted confrontation followed several nights of general disruptive tactics by youths pulling fire alarm phones.

Super Saturday Proceeds Allotted

Needy East San Mateo High School students will be the principal beneficiaries of the third annual "Super Saturday," May 20 after approval by the festival executive committee of a 40 per cent allocation of the proceeds to a scholarship fund, announced Al Randolph, "Super Saturday" general chairman.

Other community organizations which will share in the proceeds of the all-day fete, to be held at King Center, 725 Monte Diablo Avenue, are the North Central Neighborhood Council (30 per cent); San Mateo Community Service Center (20 per cent); and the Summer Youth Program (10 per cent).

The parade, launching the festival, will get under way at 10 a.m. at Fifteenth and B Streets, with the judges' stand to be located at Tenth and B Streets, stated Randolph. The musical contingents in the parade will be joined by a number of non-musical units at Eighth Avenue and all Groups will march past the reviewing stand at First and B Streets.

Some 35 bands, including many from distant parts of Northern California, are expected to participate in this year's event, according to Rosemary Hood, chairman, and Henry Use, co-chairman of the parade committee.

Other "Super Saturday" program attractions include the sale of food from many lands, games and the selection of a "Teen Queen."

Tickets for the festival, available for a 50 cent donation, can be purchased at ten locations,

D.A. Staff Is Increased

Two new deputies started work this week on the staff of District Attorney Keith C. Sorrenson.

They are William John (Jack) Fahres, 34, of 9 Cathay Circle, South San Francisco, and Joel Ungar, 33, of San Francisco.

Both graduates of UCLA, the appointees have been assigned as prosecutors in the Municipal Court, Fahres in Redwood City and Ungar in South San Francisco.

Fahres, a graduate of Golden Gate Law School in San Francisco, has been a staff deputy in the office of the district attorney in Contra Costa County for the past two years.

He and his wife, Mary Lou, have two children, Tam, 2, and Daniel, 6 months.

Ungar has been parole officer with the California Youth Authority for the past five years. He attended night classes at the University of San Francisco Law School and was graduated last June. He said he and his wife, Fay, are looking for a home in San Mateo County. They have a son, Jonathan, 16 months.

The festival executive committee will meet 9:30 a.m., Saturday, April 8, at King Center.
